DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kutik (3577843) in view of Eto (5849344).

Kutik teaches the claimed apparatus having two plates forming a shared cavity (34), two pins (38, 50) situated in the cavity, each pin having a shape for undercuts (32, 38), means responsive to a complete opening of the mold (Fig. 7), the pins able to have partial movement from the plates (Fig. 7). When the plates are closed, the pins are aligned to form a bore (Fig. 2).

Kutik fails to teach the pin abutting on another and the enabling the mold to be partially opened without pulling the pins from the undercut.

In regards to the abutment of the pins, the pins are already aligned in the bore. It is merely a matter of design of the product whether or not apparatus will have the pins abut one another. One of ordinary skill in the art would recognize that the pins abutting one another would form a hold in the product, but the apparatus would remain the same, it is an intended use of the apparatus to have pins abut to thereby form holes on the product.

Eto teaches the use of pins (23, 32) that have limited movement thereby allowing for the pins to stay in the same relative position when the mold is partially opened and thus allowing for the product to be ejected from the mold cavity. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Kutik with pin movement as taught by Eto because it allows for the product to be partially ejected from the mold cavity during the partial opening of the mold.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 14 and 15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. The applicants have cancelled claim 15 and amended claim 14 with new features that have been addressed in the new rejection above. The newly amended claim 14 incorporates features from claim 15 and also includes the pins abutting one another. The new rejection addresses the features.
